

BLACKHAWKS HALL OF FAME | DUNCAN KEITH

Duncan Keith Modern Era (2005–2021)

Originally selected by Chicago in the second round (54th overall) of the 2002 NHL Draft, Keith is the all-time leader among Blackhawks defensemen in games played (1,192). Among Blackhawks blueliners, he also ranks second in assists (520) and points (625), and ranks third in goals (105). Keith is also the franchise leader among defensemen in career postseason games played (135), assists (68) and points (86), and ranks fourth with 18 playoff goals.

“An anchor of three Stanley Cups, Duncan’s impact on the game of hockey is nothing short of astounding,” Wirtz said. “Through his elite playmaking, grit and leadership both on and off the ice, Duncan helped shape a modern dynasty while cementing himself as one of the best to ever play.”

The Winnipeg, Manitoba native won three Stanley Cups with Chicago in 2010, 2013 and 2015. He scored the Cup-clinching goal in Game 6 against the Tampa Bay Lightning in 2015, going on to win the Conn Smythe Trophy that season. Additionally, Keith won the Norris Memorial Trophy twice in 2010 and 2014, was twice named to the NHL’s First All-Star Team in 2010 and 2014 and earned Second All-Star Team honors in 2017. Internationally, Keith won two Olympic gold medals with Canada in 2010 and 2014 and a silver medal in the 2008 IIHF World Championship. In January 2017 as part of the NHL’s Centennial celebration, Keith was named one of the 100 Greatest NHL Players. He was also recently elected to the Hockey Hall of Fame Class of 2025.
