TOP NOTES

Tage Thompson's first goal gave him a four-game home point streak against the Avalanche, which marked the longest such streak by a Sabres forward since Miroslav Satan from Feb. 3, 1999 to March 24, 2003 (four games; 2+3).

Alex Tuch recorded an assist on Thompson's first goal and he has registered one point in each home game he has played against Colorado as a member of the Sabres (1+3).

With his goal, JJ Peterka has now recorded one point in three consecutive games against Colorado (2+1).

Zach Benson registered an assist on Peterka's goal and he has tallied three assists in his last three games.

With his assist on Peterka's goal, Dylan Cozens has now tallied five points (2+3) in his last five games against the Avalanche.

Thompson's second goal and Peterka's goal came just 11 seconds apart, the quickest the Sabres have recorded two goals in succession since Jack Eichel tallied two goals 10 seconds apart on Dec. 15, 2017 vs. Carolina.

Thompson's two first-period goals marked the 21st multi-goal performance of his career and his second of the season. He last did so on Oct. 26 vs. Detroit (two goals). In his last six games against Colorado, Thompson has posted 11 points (7+4).
