AT A GLANCE

1,500 GAMES FOR THE CAPTAIN

Captain Anze Kopitar is set to skate in his 1,500th career NHL game on Thursday against the New York Islanders. In doing so, the center is slated to become just the 25th different player in NHL history to play as many, and just the third active player to do so behind Brent Burns (1,557 GP) and Alex Ovechkin (1,554 GP). Kopitar's 1,499 career games played entering Thursday's contest is tied with Mike Modano for the 25th most in NHL history, which also stands as the ninth-most games played by a player with a single franchise. Kopitar notched his 18th assist of the season, and 856th of his career, on Monday against Colorado to mark his 1,302nd career point (446-856=1,302), the 38th-most all-time in League history, while his 856 helpers place 28th most.

TRIPLE ROOKIE LAP

On Monday evening against the Colorado Avalanche, the Kings had a trio of rookies make their NHL debut: forwards Kenny Connors and Jared Wright, and defenseman Angus Booth all took the ice for the first time in an NHL regular-season contest. Monday's game marked the 11th occasion in Kings history in which three players made their debut for the team in the same game, and the first since Oct. 5, 2017 with Oscar Fantenberg, Alex Iafallo and Kurtis MacDermid. With his second period tally on Monday, Booth became the 24th player in Kings history to score their first career goal in their NHL debut, and the first to do so since Taylor Ward on April 17, 2025, versus Calgary. He is also just the fourth defenseman to accomplish such feat in team history, and the 20th blueliner League-wide to do so in the last 10 years.
