The Front Office

SEYMOUR H. KNOX III

Chairman of the Board and President

The Chairman of the Board of the Buffalo Sabres is a successful businessman and an outstanding athlete in his own right.

Since his school days when a football injury ended his hockey career, Seymour Knox has been an avid hockey fan, and turned that interest into a long quest for an NHL franchise — one that paid off in 1970.

Former president of the U.S. Squash Racquets Association and a nationally-ranked player, he is Regional Vice President of Dominick & Dominick, members of New York Stock Exchange, and Sabres' representative on the NHL Board of Governors.

NORTHRUP R. KNOX

Vice Chairman of the Board

"Norty" Knox was an outstanding goalie at Yale and turned his athletic abilities to polo and court tennis after college. He was the court tennis World Champion for 10 years, and captain and number one player on the U.S. Polo team in 1969. Currently he serves as Chairman of the U.S. Polo Association.

With his brother Seymour, Norty Knox was disappointed in the first expansion of the NHL when the well-prepared Buffalo application was turned down. But the Knox brothers and other local backers continued to be persistent, leading to the league's dynamic new franchise.

DAVID G. FORMAN

Administrative Vice President

Front office operations of the new Sabres organization have been under the direction of Dave Forman in the hectic months of putting together a new franchise.

No stranger to administration, he has been a well known and highly respected business and civic leader in Western New York for three decades.

He was named administrative vice president and a member of the Sabres' executive committee in the fall of 1970, after serving as a Sabres' vice president since the club's inception.

ROBERT O. SWADOS

Vice President and Counsel

Professional sports in Buffalo have been both vocation and avocation for Bob Swados, partner in the law firm of Cohen, Swados, Wright, Hanifin & Bradford.

He is a former vice president of the Buffalo Bisons Baseball Club, vice president, Major League for Buffalo, Inc., and was counsel to the Knox brothers when they first sought an NHL franchise in 1965.

A Buffalo native, he has a B.A. from the University of Buffalo and is a cum laude graduate of the Harvard University Law School.

GEORGE "PUNCH" IMLACH
General Manager

The new Buffalo Sabres presented a different kind of challenge to hockey's most colorful and quotable coach, and Punch met the challenge with more success than even his most ardent admirers had hoped.

But success in building and rebuilding is one of Punch's strong suits. In 11 seasons as general manager and/or coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs, his teams won four Stanley Cups and made the playoffs 10 times.

Punch predicted the Sabres would be the first expansion team to win the Stanley Cup, and he is sticking to his prediction.

A heart attack during mid-season last year benched Punch for the duration, but he was back in the Aud by season's end to watch his young club. During the off-season Punch decided to confine his duties to general manager, and continued work to build a winner.

FRED HUNT

Assistant
General Manager

For 18 years general manager and four-time coach of the old American Hockey League Buffalo Bisons, and a star player here for nearly a decade before that, Fred Hunt and pro hockey in Buffalo go hand in hand.

He joined the Sabres shortly after the new franchise was awarded, and in that first season was the club's principal trouble shooter in the complicated process of setting up a big league organization — on and off ice.

When Joe Crozier moved to Buffalo, Fred was placed in charge of operations at Cincinnati, where the Sabres have their AHL farm club.

JOE CROZIER
Coach

When Punch Imlach was sidelined with a heart attack at mid-season last year, there was only one logical choice for his replacement, his long-time friend, Joe Crozier.

Joe had been coach and GM at Buffalo's new Cincinnati franchise in the American League, and came to Buffalo as acting coach.

The young Sabres responded to his intense drive to win and instructional ability to finish the season on the upbeat with only two losses in the final eight games.

A former defenseman in the minors, Joe was one of the most successful coaches and general managers in pro hockey, with a barrel of league and playoff championships in the past decade at Rochester in the AHL and Vancouver in the Western League. Joe Crozier coaches winning teams and intends to keep up the practice. He was named coach of the Sabres this spring when Punch stepped down to retain the Buffalo post as general manager.

JOHN ANDERSEN
Director of Scouting

Like his scouting staff, soft-spoken John lives out of a suitcase much of the year, crisscrossing Canada and the United States to scout both amateur and professional hockey talent.

Danish-born, Andersen worked for Punch Imlach in Toronto for 10 years and moved west to become director of scouting for the California Golden Seals when Punch parted company with the Maple Leafs. When Imlach joined the Sabres, Andersen joined Imlach once again.

ROBERT CHAMBERS
Director of Sales

FRANK CHRISTIE
Head Trainer

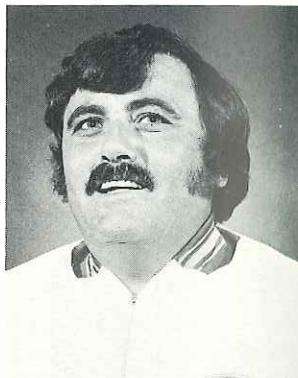

ROBERT PICKEL
Comptroller

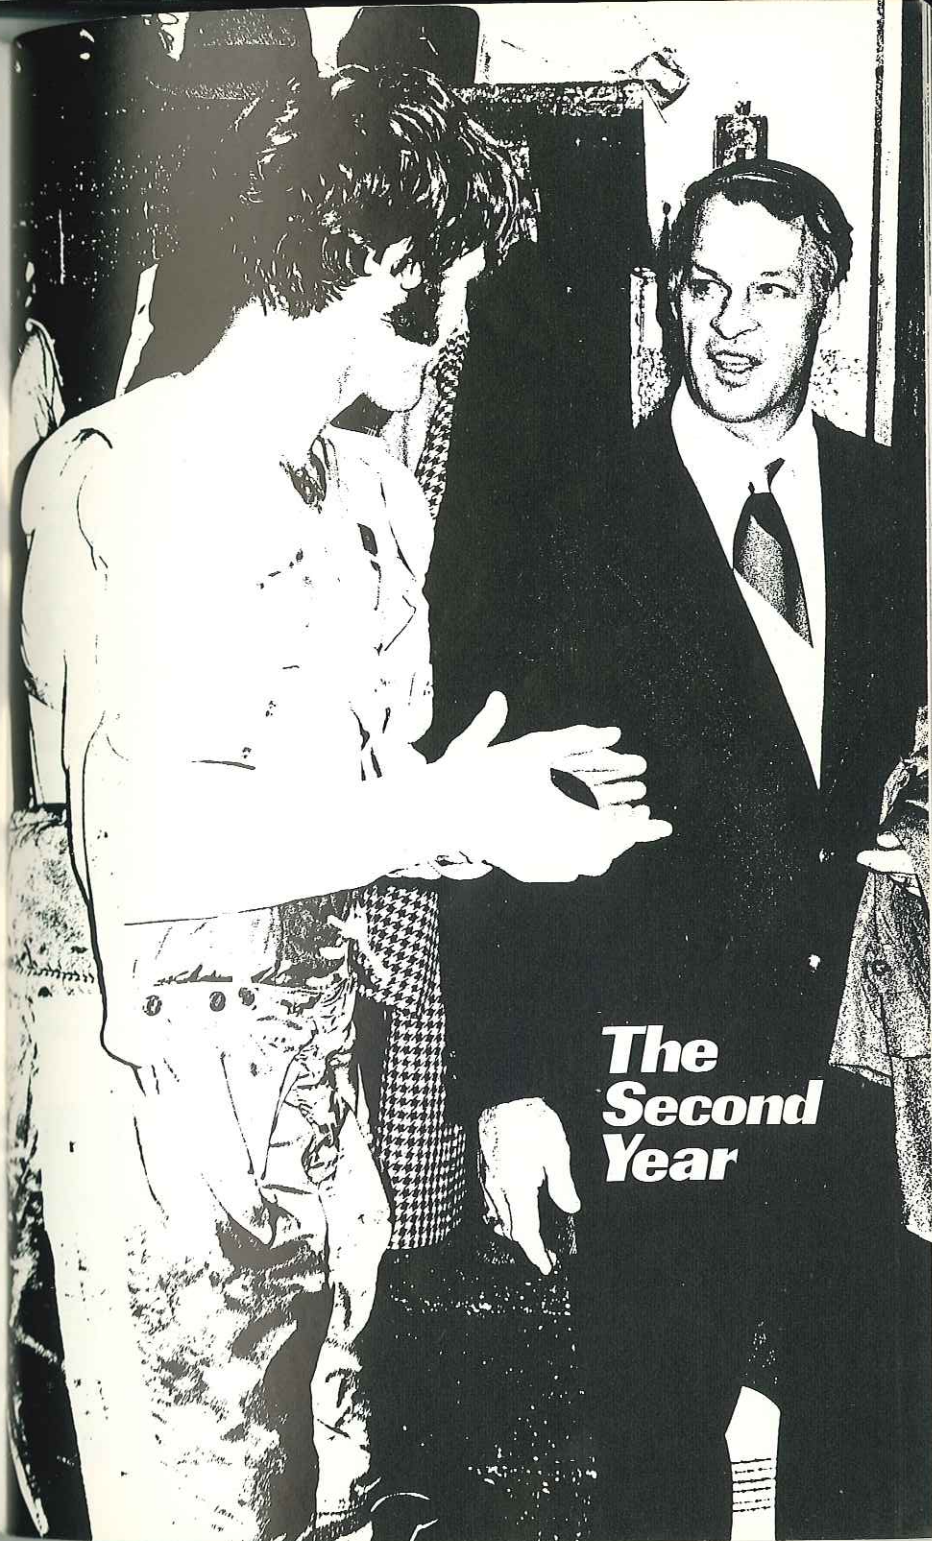

JAMES BIGGAR
Director of Advertising

KIRK KELLY
Ticket Manager

ANGELO NIGRO
Assistant Trainer

The Second Year

THE SECOND YEAR

The Sabres' second time around was a year of change and of challenge . . . of record performance on the ice, and record numbers at the gate . . . as Buffalo become the newest "hot ticket" in professional sport.

Thirty-six players wore Buffalo colors during 71-72, as Punch Imlach began rebuilding after only a year, making the Sabres the youngest club in the NHL by season's end.

The oldest forward by the last month of the season was 25-year-old captain and center Gerry Meehan, and the youngsters began to jell during the final weeks.

In their last eight games, Buffalo lost only twice. And on the season's final night, before a frantic Memorial Auditorium crowd, the club knocked the Philadelphia Flyers out of the Stanley Cup playoffs with a last second Meehan goal.

The youngsters who Imlach is building with include right winger Rene Robert, rugged Jim Lorentz, Steve Atkinson, Don Luce, Randy Wyrozub, Craig Ramsay and his first draft choice of 1971, Rick Martin.

The bullet-shooting Martin scored 44 goals in his first season, wiping out linemate Gil Perreault's old record of 38 goals set a year before. Martin had a great chance for the magic 50 goal figure, but late season injuries slowed him down.

Perreault's second season was better than his first, when he won the Calder Trophy as NHL rookie of the year.

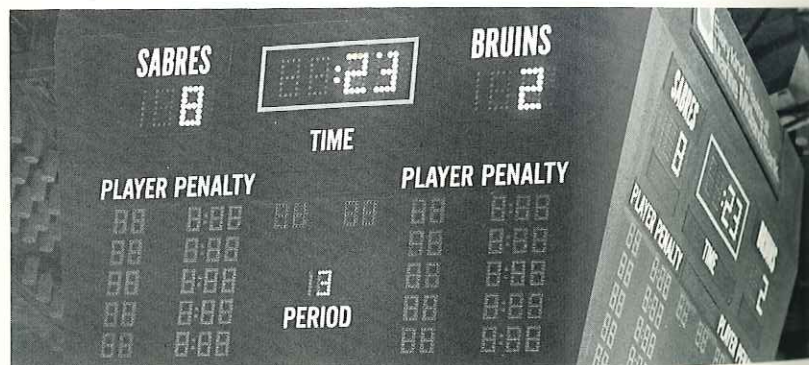

He scored 26 goals, added a club record 48 assists, and was instrumental in helping Martin to his goal-scoring mark.

Roger Crozier, rated by many of his fellow NHL'ers as the best goalie in hockey, had another sensational year, and was named MVP by both his team mates and the Buffalo fans.

With Punch Imlach sidelined in mid-year by a heart attack, and a succession of injuries, Buffalo never was a playoff contender in 71-72.

But Buffalo's fans turned out for 35 sellouts in 39 homegames, and the waiting list for season tickets in Sabretown is lengthy. A hockey ticket in Buffalo is a precious commodity.

"We hope we can pay off this season," says Punch Imlach. "We still aim to be the first expansion team to win the Stanley Cup. And we have to make the playoffs first. We intend to make them this year."

Steve Atkinson

Right Wing

Born: Toronto, Ontario

October 16, 1948

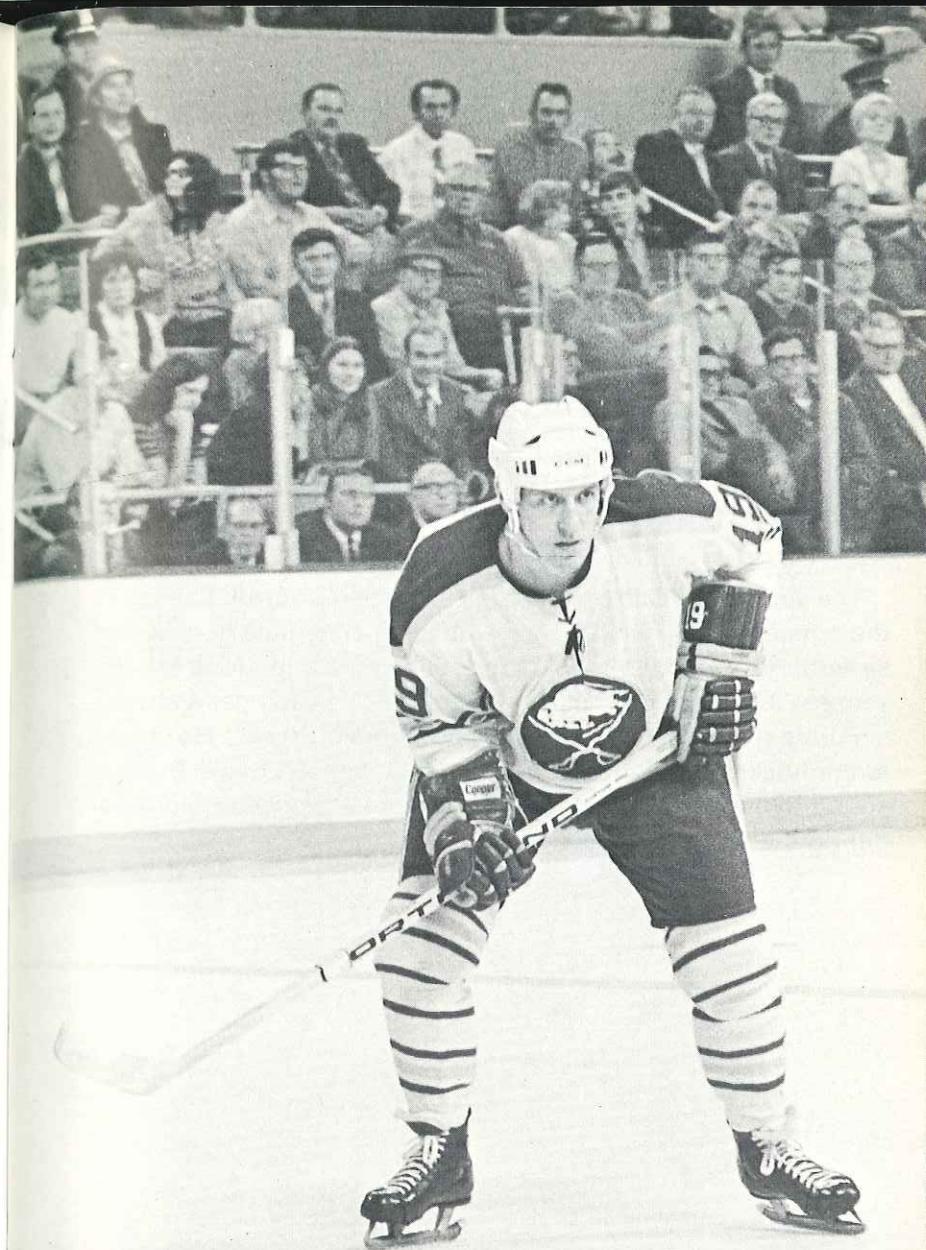

Height: 5'-11" Weight: 170

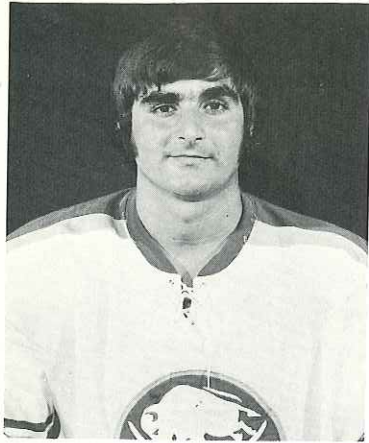

Shoots: Right

One of the quickest of the Sabres at getting off a wrist shot, Steve's goal production dropped from a rookie year 20, to 14 in 1971-72. But he's expected to rebound and shore up the Sabres' scoring total from right wing. A right hand shot, Steve came to Buffalo from the St. Louis Blues organization, after breaking into pro hockey with the Boston Bruins. He was rookie of the year with the Central League Oklahoma City Blazers in 1968-69, and scored 29 goals the next year for the same club. Steve played his junior hockey with the Niagara Falls Flyers and now makes his year-round home in nearby Crystal Beach, Ont.

Larry Carriere

(Care-e-air')

Defense

Born: Montreal, Quebec

January 3, 1952

Height: 6'-1" Weight: 190

Shoots: Left

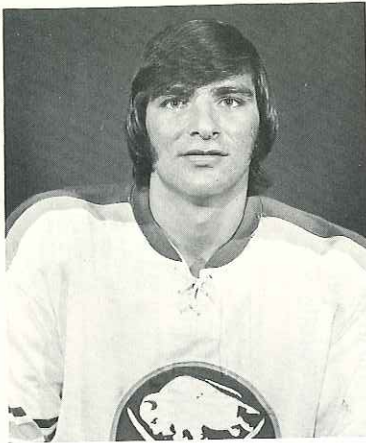

The second Buffalo pick in the 1972 amateur draft, Larry was the outstanding defenseman in Canadian collegiate hockey last season. He captained the Loyola College team in Montreal and scored 20 goals and 29 assists as a back liner. Larry has a strong, accurate shot from the point, and carries the puck well. He played junior hockey in Quebec before matriculating at Loyola and this spring earned his bachelor's degree. Larry resides in Montreal during the off-season.

Butch Deadmarsh

Left Wing

Born: Trail, British Columbia

April 5, 1950

Height: 5'-11" Weight: 180

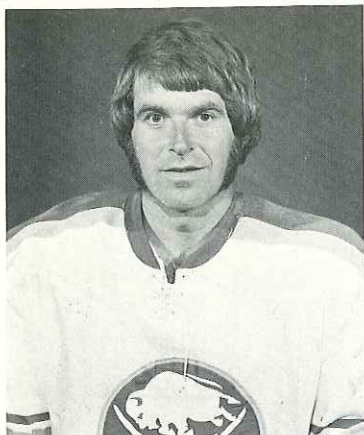

Shoots: Left

Ernest Charles Deadmarsh, says Punch Imlach, wears the nickname of "Butch" perfectly, as he's one of the toughest hitters in the Sabres' system. Originally drafted by Buffalo on the Sabres' entry in the league, Butch saw brief service last season, and in 1970-71 with Buffalo. But last year, it was mostly Cincinnati for the hard charging young winger. He scored a team-leading 34 goals with the Swords, and appears ready to be a regular in the NHL. As a junior with the Brandon Wheat Kings, he spent more than 300 minutes in the penalty box in one season. Butch cut down on the penalty minutes in his first two years as a pro, but is still — to put it mildly — aggressive. He lives in Penicton, B.C. during the off-season.

Dave Dryden

Goalkeeper

Born: Hamilton, Ontario

September 5, 1941

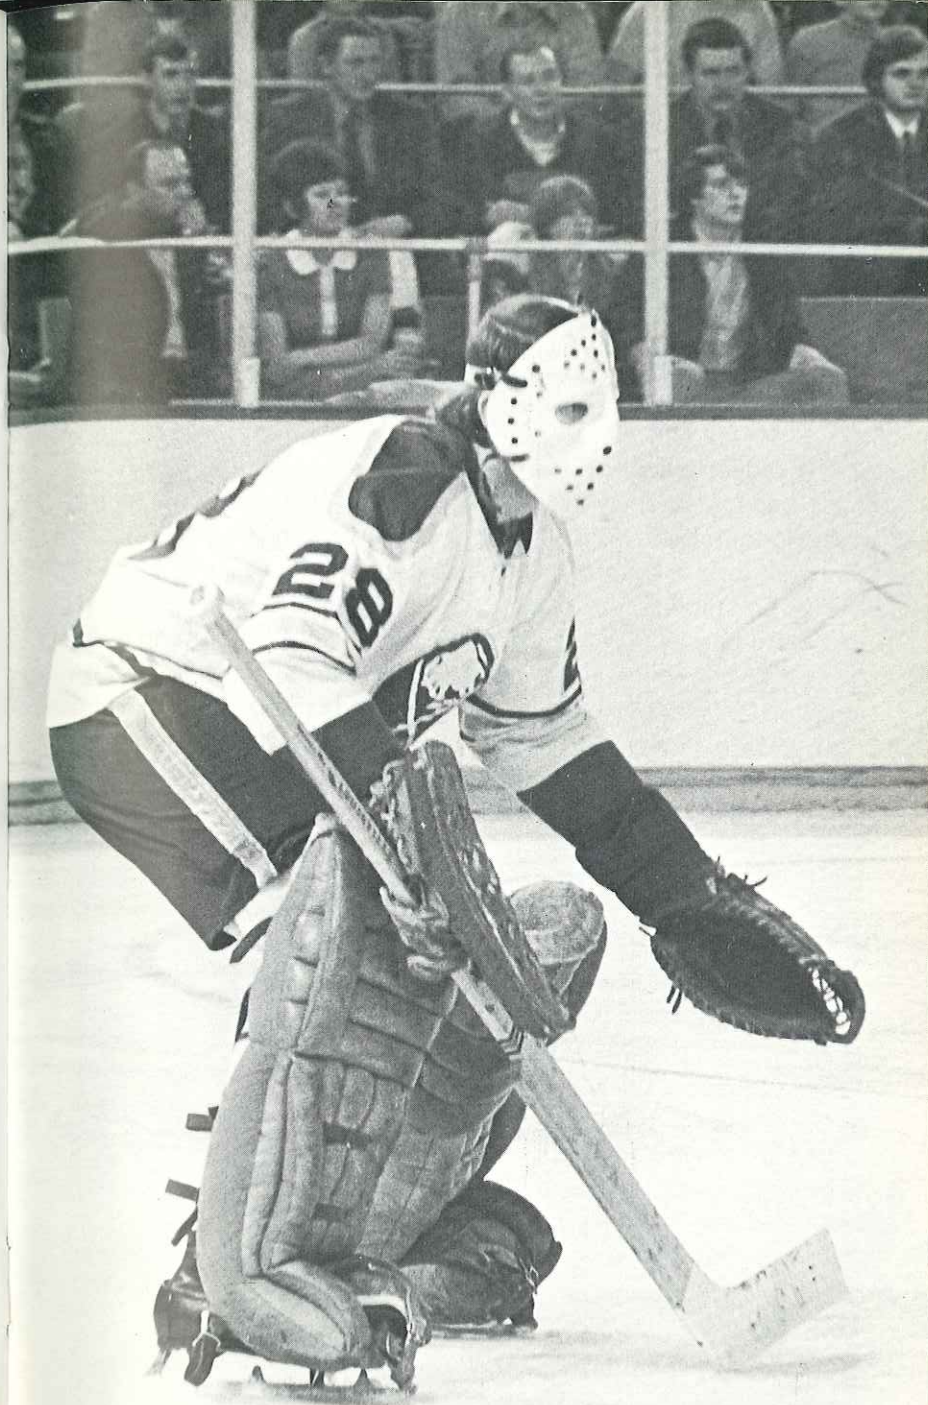

Height: 6'-2" Weight: 180

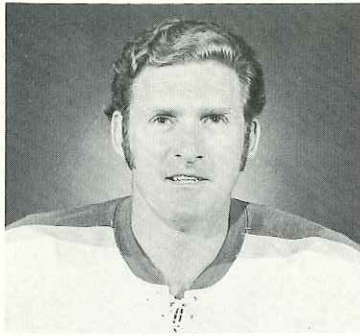

Shoots: Left

Dave Dryden had the kind of season in 71-72 that most goalies consider a sort of nightmare. Early in the year, he played solidly as the occasional relief man for Roger Crozier. But, after a loss against the Detroit Red Wings before a home crowd, Dave didn't get back into action for two months, part of the time hampered by an injury. When he came back to play late in the year, Dave stunned the Chicago Black Hawks, (his old team), with a 2-1 win in Chicago Stadium. He then alternated appearances through the rest of the season with Roger Crozier, and is expected to see more game duty this year. Articulate and a great ambassador for hockey, Dryden lives in the Toronto suburb of Weston in the off-season.

Larry Hillman

Defense

Born: Kirkland Lake, Ontario

February 5, 1937

Height: 6'-0" Weight: 185

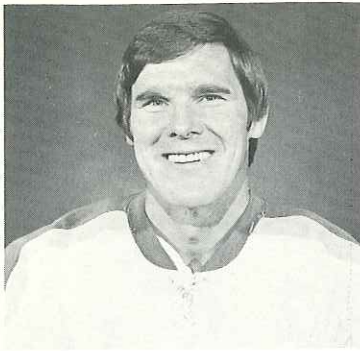

Shoots: Left

The oldest player on the Sabres after he was obtained in an early season trade with Los Angeles, Larry is also one of the best conditioned. He's starting his 19th season in pro hockey this year, and his steady defensive play with Buffalo in 1971-72 helped to stabilize the young Sabres. Buffalo is his eighth NHL club, and Larry is finally playing where he can commute to work from his year-round home, a farm in Beamsville, Ont., just 45 minutes from Memorial Auditorium. Larry is the brother of long-time NHL'er Wayne Hillman, who he played with briefly in Philadelphia. He's played on four Stanley Cup winners, including some of Punch Imlach's champions at Toronto.

Tim Horton

Defense

Born: Cochrane, Ontario

January 12, 1930

Height: 5'-10" Weight: 180

Shoots: Right

One of the few players in hockey history to perform as a pro over four decades, Tim broke in with the old NHL Pittsburgh Hornets in 1949 and played a game with the Toronto Maple Leafs that year. He spent 20 years with the Leafs, then moved on to the New York Rangers and Pittsburgh Penguins before being taken in the intra-league draft by Buffalo. Punch Imlach lured his old friend out of an announced retirement, and Tim should immeasurably aid the young and rebuilding Buffalo defense. One of the game's great defensemen and one of its physically strongest players, Tim lives in Toronto during the off-season and owns a chain of donut shops in Ontario.

Jim Lorentz
(Lor-ens')
Center-Left Wing

Born: Waterloo, Ontario
 May 1, 1947
 Height: 6'-0" Weight: 180
 Shoots: Left

Jim's versatility has been both bane and boon in his years as a pro. He can play either left wing or center and help his hockey club, so he's never been put at either position and kept there. Jim came to the Sabres from the New York Rangers in mid-season of 71-72, after starting the year with the St. Louis Blues. He played left wing most of the year with Buffalo, but was at center for a few games. But Jim adapts well to change, scored 21 goals with the Blues while dividing his time at both positions in 1970-71. Former Central League Rookie-of-the-Year, and later that league's scoring champ, Jim played his junior hockey with the Niagara Falls Flyers, and makes his home there in the off-season.

Don Luce

(Loose)

Center

Born: London, Ontario

October 2, 1948

Height: 6'-2" Weight: 178

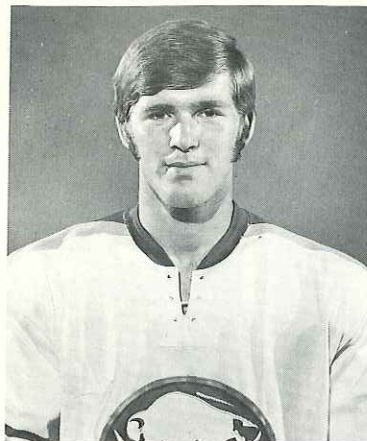

Shoots: Left

Digging Don Luce was one of only two Sabres to play in all 78 games during the 1971-72 campaign. The rangy centerman saw heavy duty as a penalty killer, and headed what was usually the Sabres' checking line. But he managed 11 goals and 8 assists, and his play steadily improved as the season progressed. Don was voted winner of the "Unsung Hero" award by members of the Sabres' Booster Club, and "Most Improved Player" by his team mates. He came to Buffalo in a trade in the spring of 1971 along with defenseman Mike Robitaille. Luce played his junior hockey with the Kitchener Rangers, and turned pro with Omaha of the Central League, a New York farm club. He was traded to Detroit midway through the 70-71 schedule. His off-season home has been in London, Ont.

Born: Montreal, Quebec

July 26, 1951

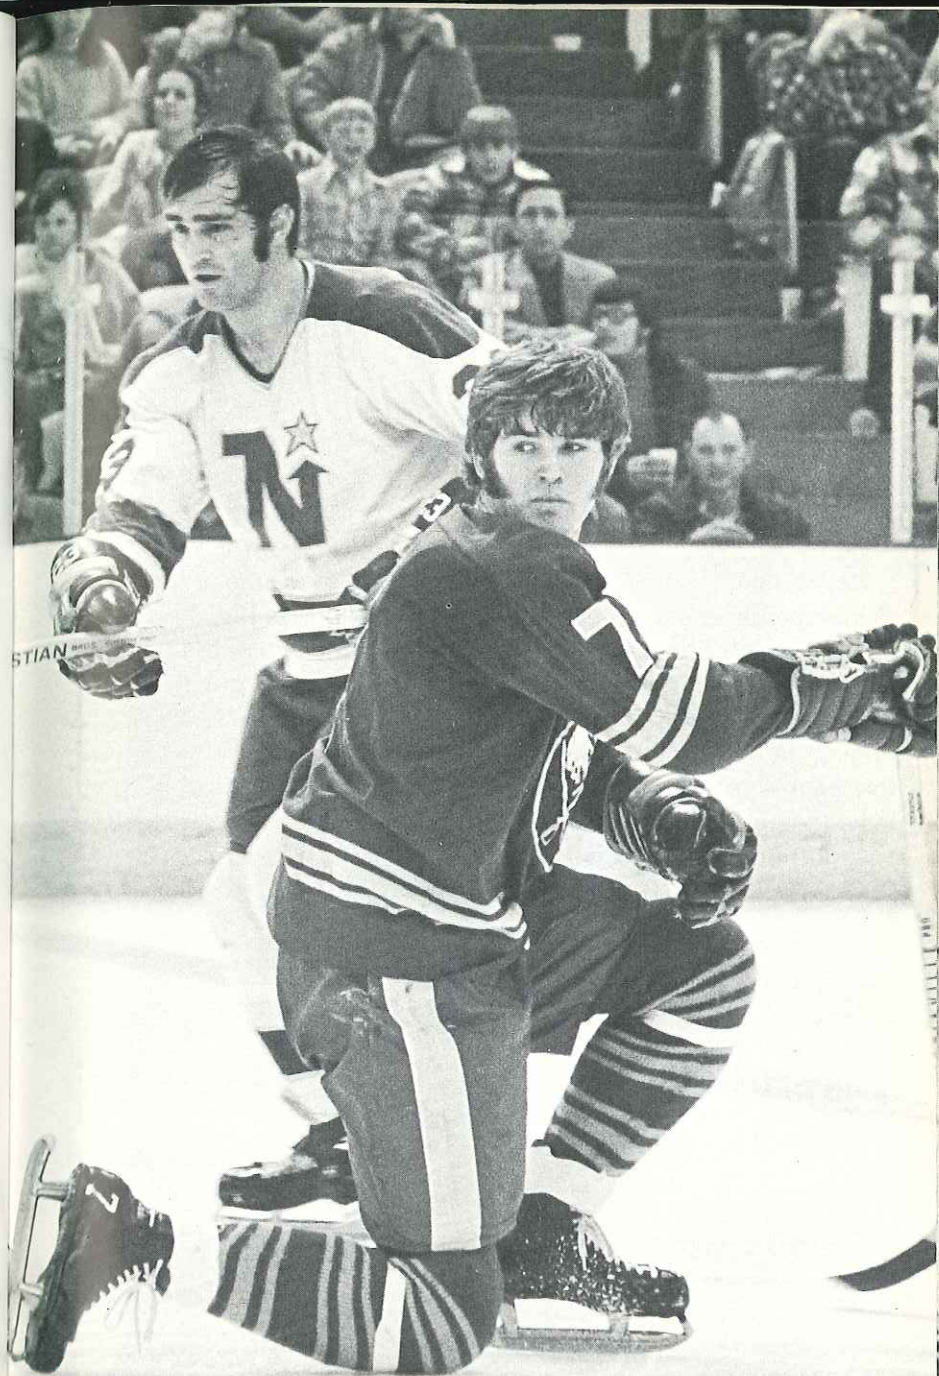

Height: 5'-11" Weight: 165

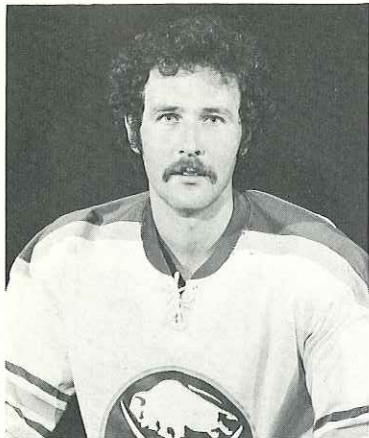

Shoots: Left

Dubbed "the greatest natural goal scorer I've ever coached," by Punch Imlach, Rick Martin's rookie year in the NHL was the best ever for a left winger. He scored 44 goals, and lost a good shot at the magic 50 mark when hampered by late season injuries. Runnerup to Ken Dryden of Montreal in voting for the Calder Trophy, Martin was chosen NHL rookie of the year by the Hockey News and in the East Division by the Sporting News. Named to Team Canada along with his centerman, Gil Perreault, Rick was on the squad for the historic match with the USSR. A bachelor and low handicap golfer, Martin resides in Montreal during the off-season.

Ray McKay

Defense

Born: Edmonton, Alberta

August 22, 1946

Height: 6'-3" Weight: 185

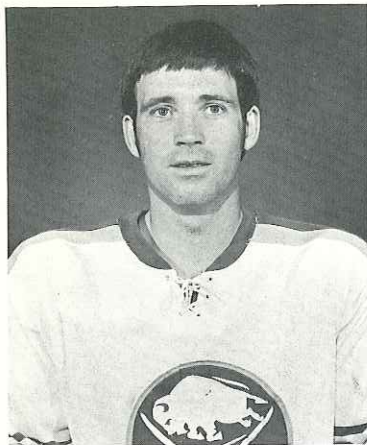

Shoots: Left

Ray is usually the last man off the ice at a Sabres' practice, as he spends every available moment working on his shooting and puck handling. Lean and lanky, at 6-3, he's one of the tallest players in pro hockey. An injury late last season put Ray on the shelf for nearly a month, and he finished the season playing himself into condition with the Cincinnati Swords. He came to the Sabres from the Chicago Black Hawks organization in the intra-league draft in June 1971. A bachelor, he makes his off-season home in Edmonton, Alta.

Gerry Meehan

(Me'-in)

Center

Born: Toronto, Ontario

September 3, 1946

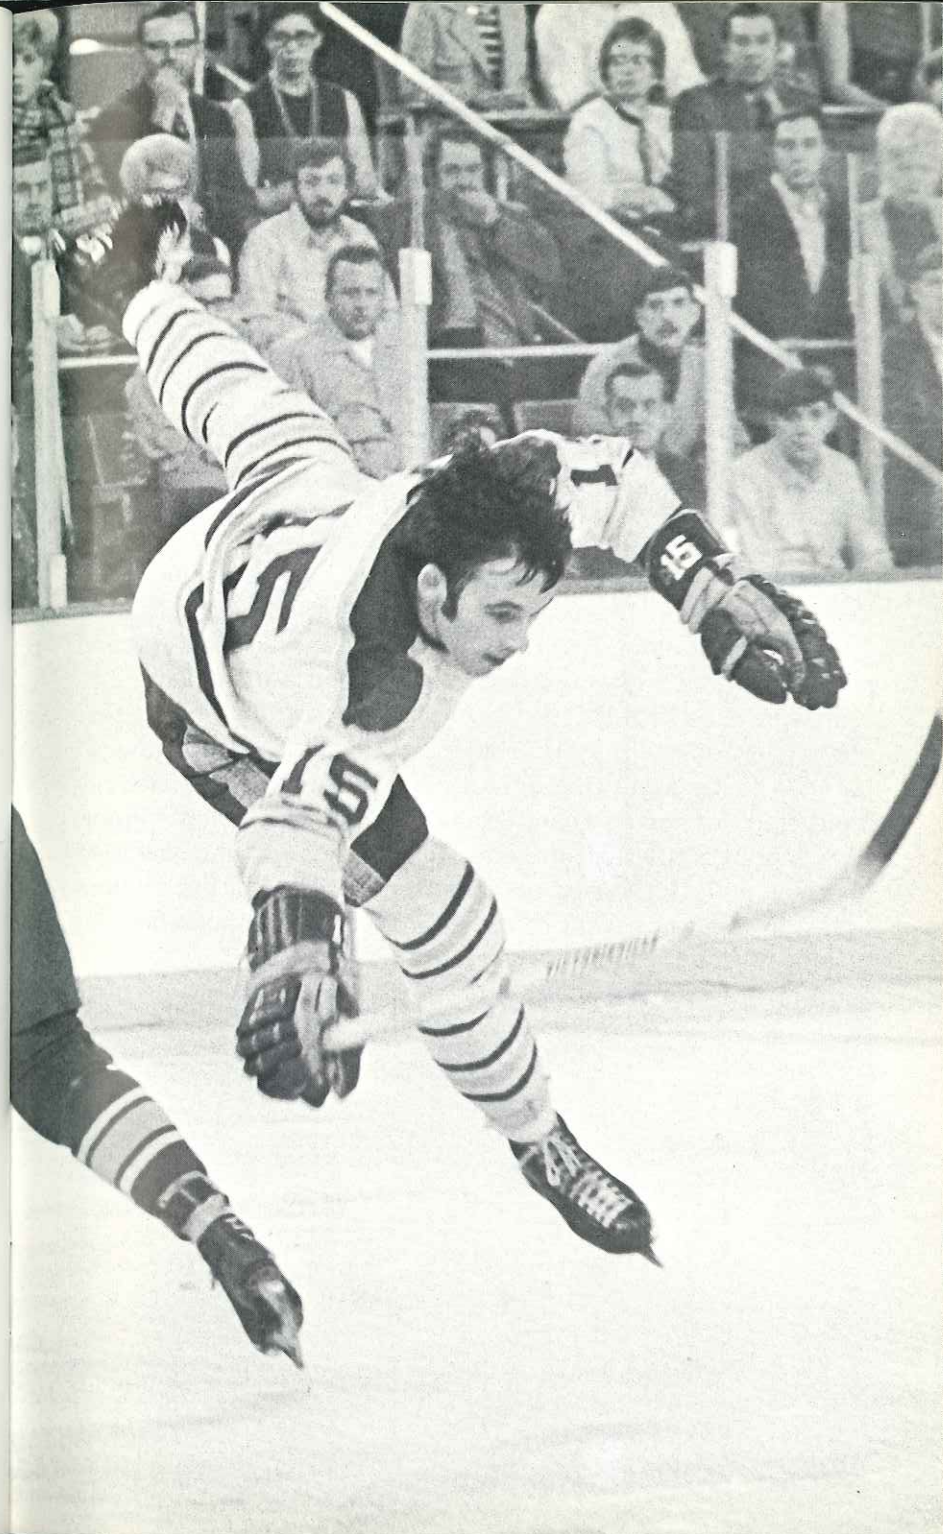

Height: 6'-2" Weight: 200

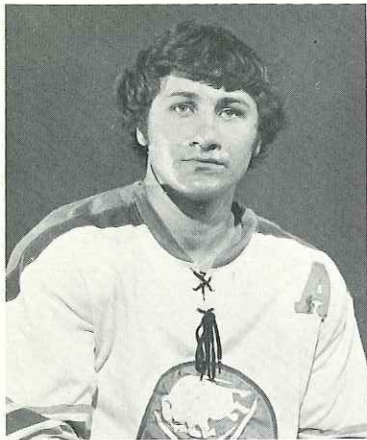

Shoots: Left

Gerry came into his own as a hockey player after joining Buffalo in the expansion draft when the Sabres joined the league. Named captain at 25 by Punch Imlach, Gerry adapted easily to the role of team leader, and after a slow start goal scoring last season, came on strong in the last two months of the schedule to total 19 goals and 27 assists for the year. Meehan's final goal of the year came in the last four seconds against Philadelphia; a goal which knocked his old NHL employers out of the playoffs. A center as a junior with the Toronto Marlboros, he was played mostly on left wing as a pro until joining Buffalo. Now he's one of the steadiest in the league in the center slot. A Toronto native, he resides in suburban Streetsville during the off-season.

Gil's second year was even better than his record rookie season in the opinion of NHL coaches. He was the first winner of the Calder Trophy since Dave Keon to score more in his second season than his first, notching 26 goals and a team record 48 assists in 1971-72. Gil is fast becoming one of the most feared players in hockey. His playmaking and puck handling have to be seen to be appreciated, and his defensive play is steadily improving. Named to Team Canada along with his left winger, Rick Martin, Gil is fast proving why the scouts who watched him as a junior predicted he could become one of the all-time greats in the game. One of the Sabres' crew of bachelors, Gil resides in Arthabaska, Que. during the off-season.

Born: New York City

March 8, 1943

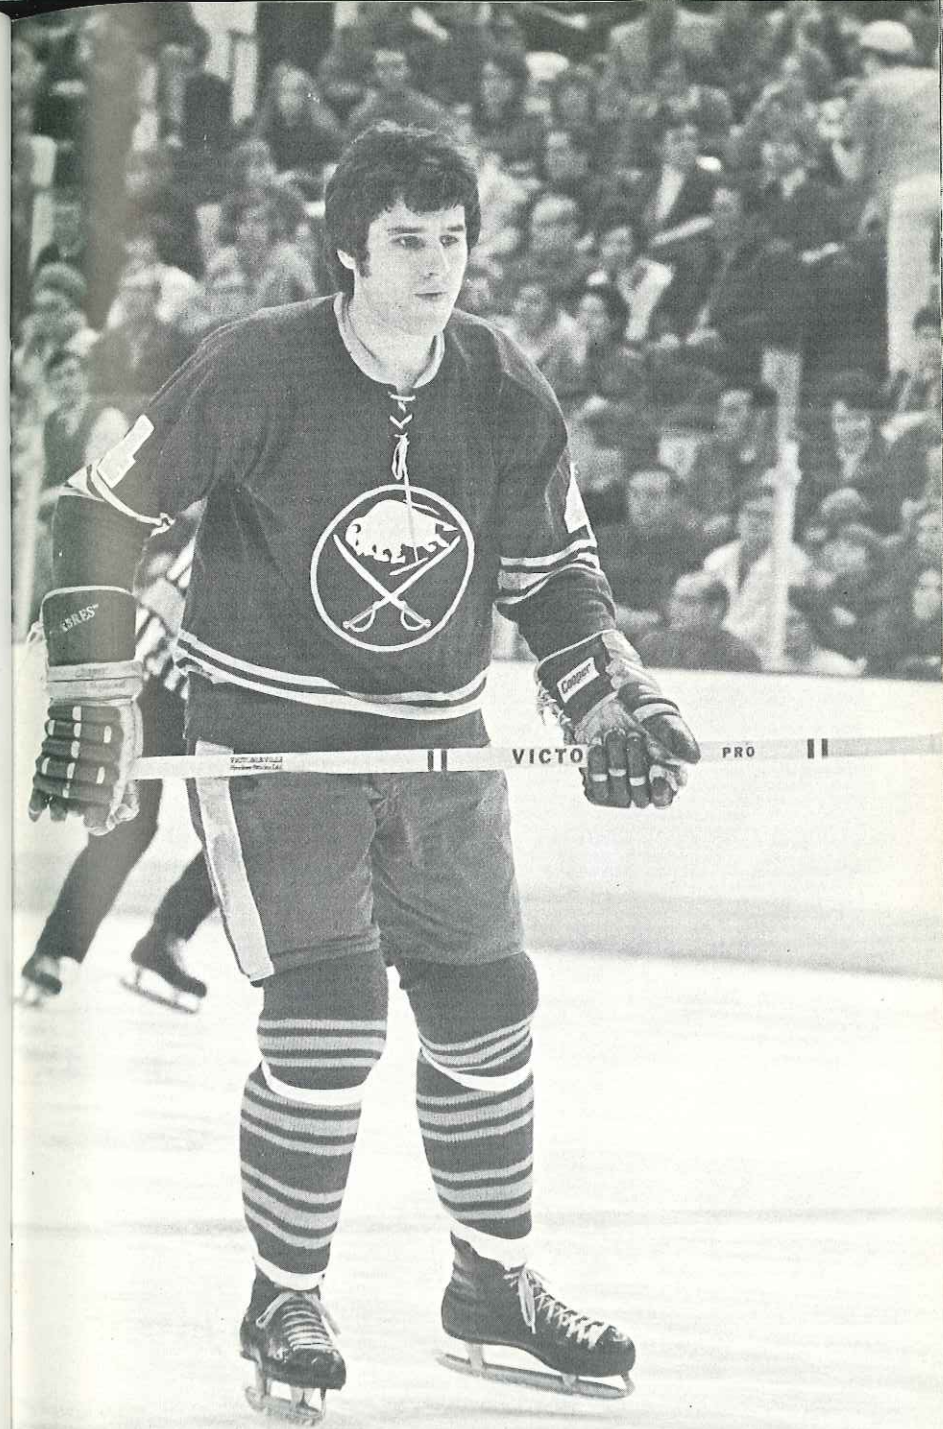

Height: 6'-2" Weight: 195

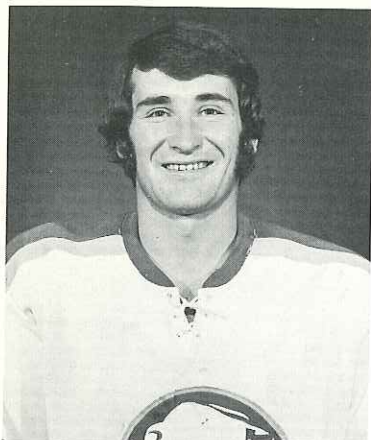

Shoots: Left

A broken leg in the sixth game of the year put Tracy on the sidelines for most of his second season with the Sabres. After he was able to skate again, Tracy went to Cincinnati to play himself back into shape, and was instrumental in getting the Swords into the AHL playoffs. He came back to appear in the Sabres' last 21 games and was one of the best of the Buffalo defensemen over that period. Son of former NHL great Babe Pratt, he's Canadian though born in New York City when his dad was a Ranger. Drafted by Buffalo from Pittsburgh when the Sabres joined the NHL, Tracy was originally in the Chicago organization and also saw NHL service with the California Golden Seals. He lives in Burnaby, B.C. in the off season.

The second choice in the Sabres' amateur draft in June 1971, Craig started the season with Cincinnati, but was recalled to Buffalo before Christmas. One of the best checkers on the club, Craig usually sticks to his wing, and is rarely out of position. He scored 6 goals as a rookie, three of them one night to single-handedly beat the Minnesota North Stars, with the added bonus that his parents were in Memorial Auditorium for the occasion. Craig played his junior hockey with the Peterborough TPT's, where he topped the 100 point mark in scoring his final year. He lives in Peterborough in the off-season.

Mike Robitaille

(Row-bit-eye)

Defense

Born: Midland, Ontario

February 12, 1948

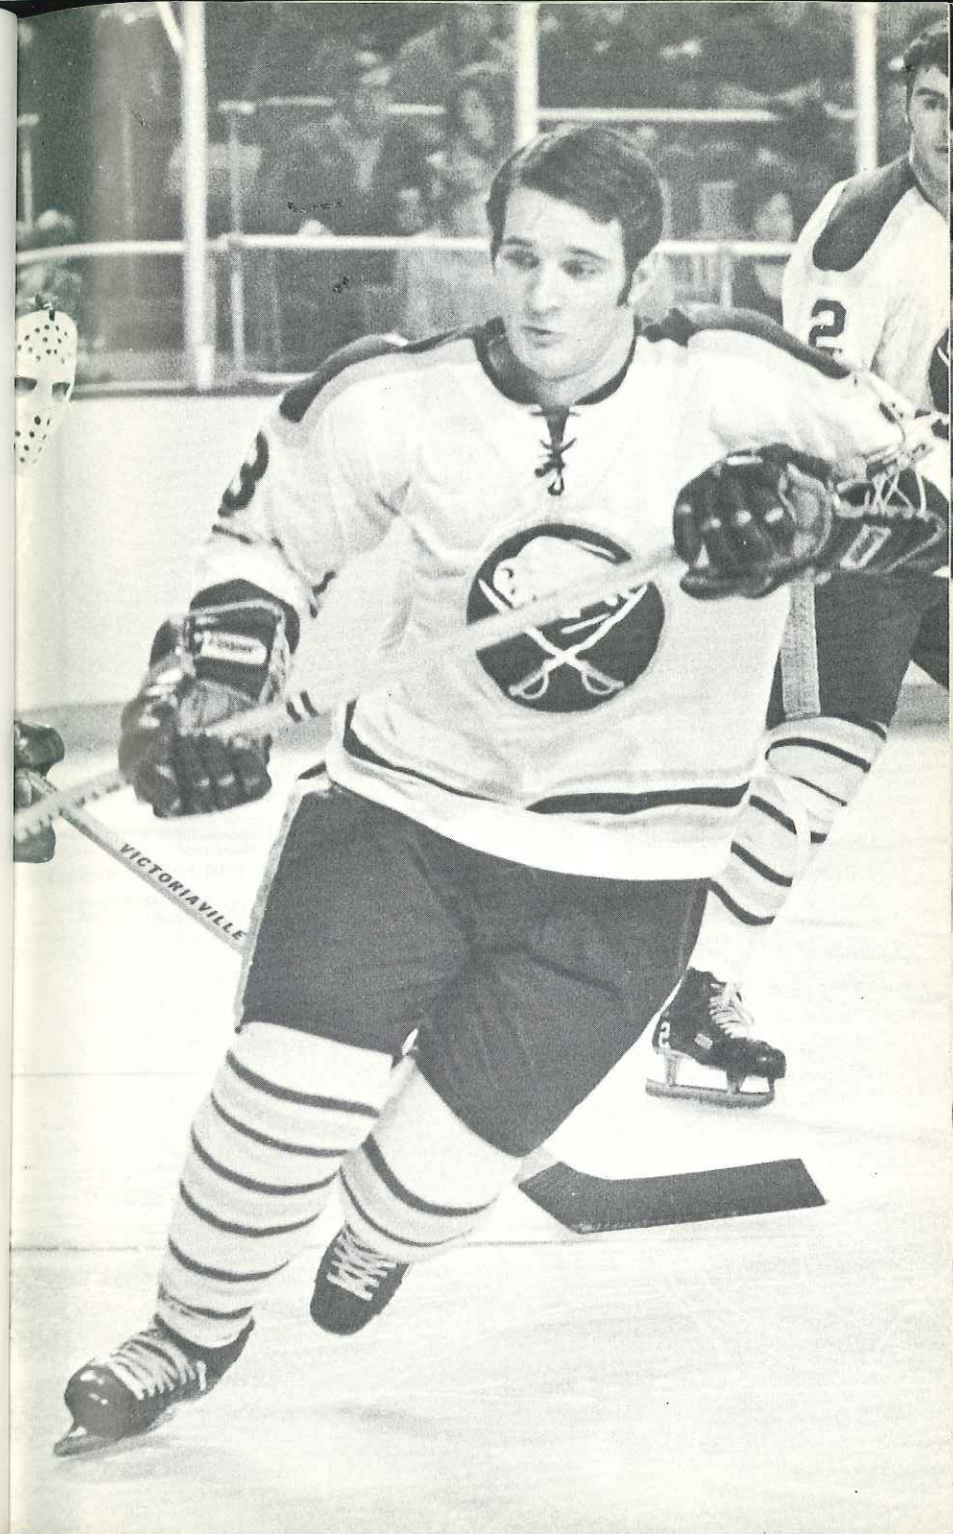

Height: 5'-11" Weight: 195

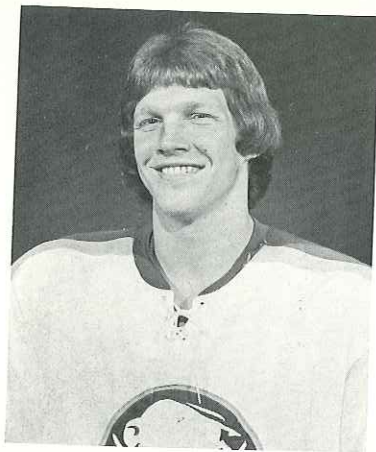

Shoots: Right

Mike's most frustrating year as a hockey player was the 71-72 season. After coming to Buffalo along with Don Luce in a 1971 deal with Detroit, the young defenseman earned a regular spot on the Sabres right side. But early in the season, a recurring shoulder injury forced surgery. At mid-season, he returned to action, playing a month in Cincinnati to get into condition, and was brought back to Buffalo. Playing regularly once more, he was hurt once again, tearing his knee against Pittsburgh, and finished the year on crutches. With Omaha in 1969-70, he was voted the Central League's outstanding defenseman. Mike played his junior hockey with the Kitchener Rangers as a team mate of Don Luce. A Williamsville resident during the season, he plans to live year round in the Buffalo area.

Jim Schoenfeld

(Shon'-feld)

Defense

Born: Galt, Ontario

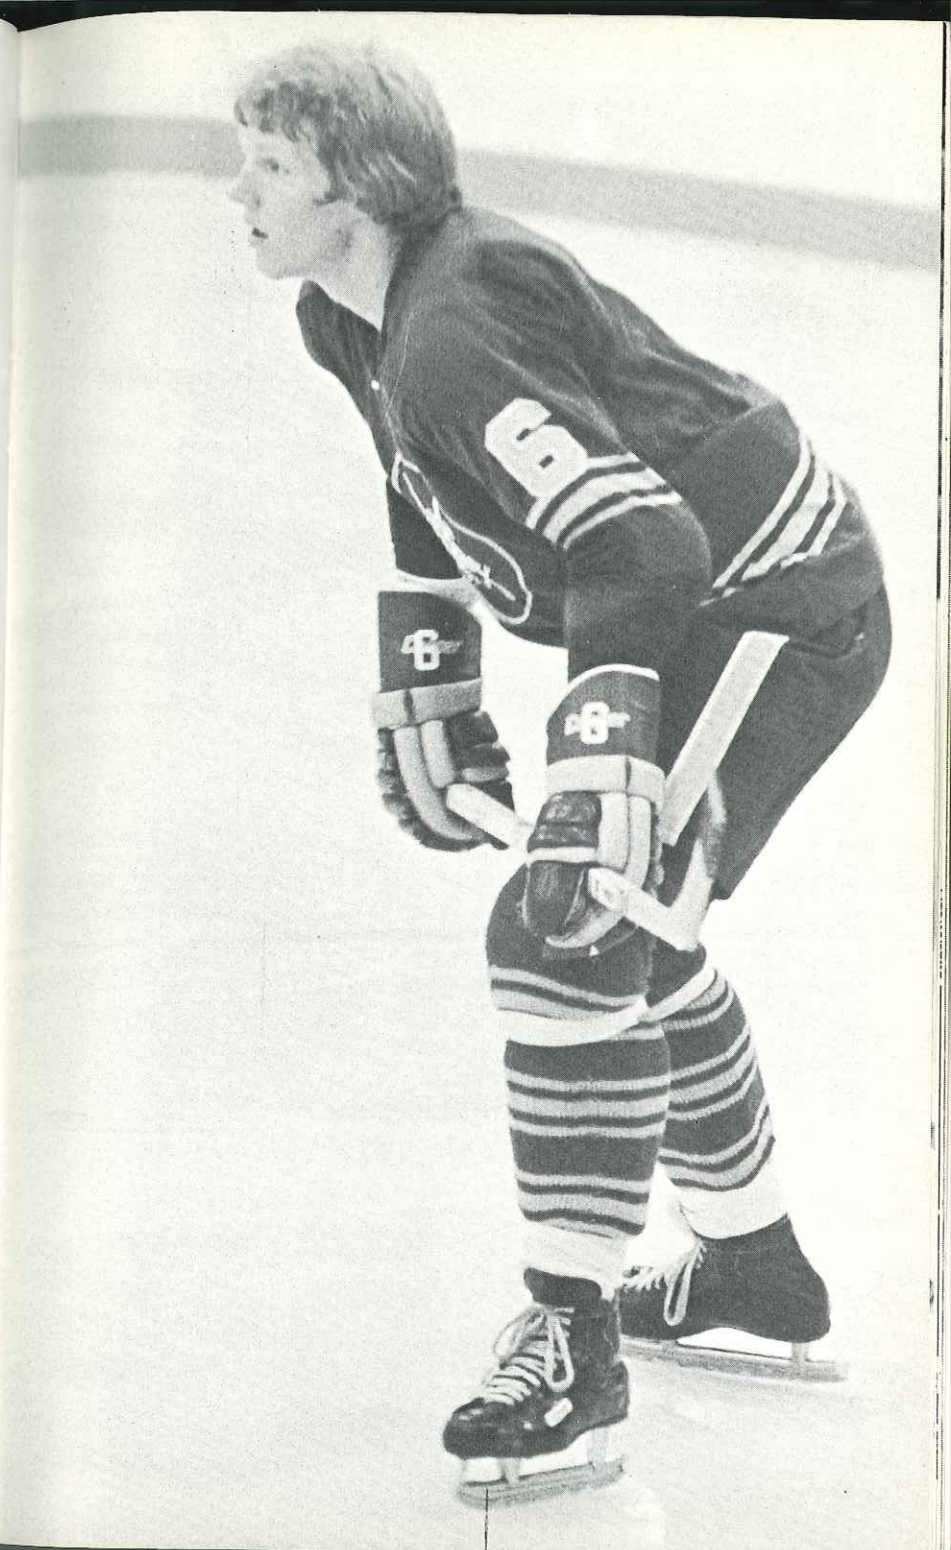

September 4, 1952

Height: 6'-2" Weight: 200

Shoots: Left

The first two number one amateur draft picks for the Buffalo Sabres have been budding superstars Gil Perreault and Rick Martin. Punch Imlach hopes that Jim Schoenfeld can follow in the steps of Gil and Rick, and move in as an outstanding regular in his first year of pro hockey. Schoenfeld has all the credentials. He was the fifth amateur and first defenseman taken in the June 1972 draft, and was rated by scouts as the best defenseman in Canada. A husky 6-2 and still growing, Jim played his junior hockey in London, Hamilton and finally with the Niagara Falls Flyers, where he sparkled in 1971-72. He had 6 goals and 46 assists there last year. A rugged checker with exceptional puck handling and skating ability for a big man, he could be the anchor on the left side of Buffalo's defense as the club builds toward championship contention. Jim lives in his hometown of Galt during the off season.

Randy Wyrozub

(Y-row'-zub)

Left Wing

Born: Lacombe, Alberta

April 8, 1950

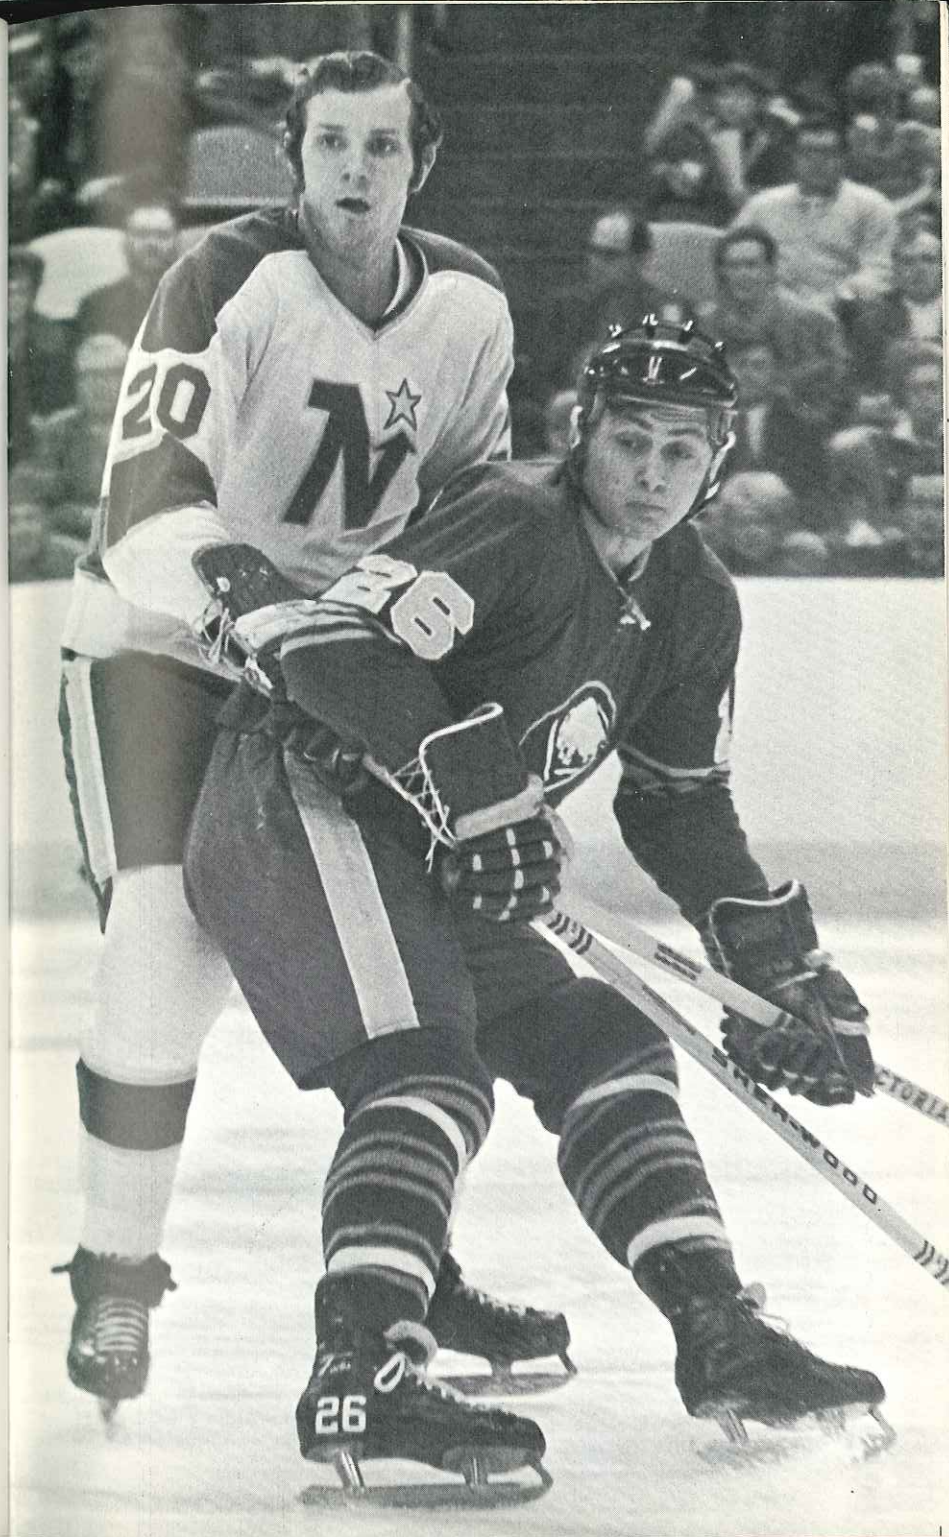

Height: 5'-11" Weight: 170

Shoots: Left

Hampered by injuries in his first pro year (1970-71), Randy started last season with Cincinnati, but was called up to Buffalo at mid-year. In part-time duty during 34 games with the Sabres at both wings, he scored 3 goals and four assists in 1971-72, and 2 goals and 2 assists in 16 games during 1970-71. A quick, darting skater, Randy was chosen in the amateur draft by Buffalo in June of 1970, and spent most of his first pro year with the Salt Lake City Golden Eagles of the Western League. He resides in his home town of Lacombe, Alta. during the off season, and played his junior hockey with the nearby Edmonton Oil Kings.

The Media

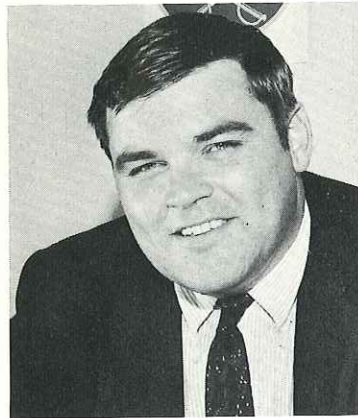

TED DARLING

The Radio-TV Voice of the Sabres

A long-time vet of the CBC and Hockey Night in Canada's Montreal crew, Darling started the Sabres off with a win in the first Buffalo game he ever broadcast. A Kingston, Ont., native, he is a grad of Ryerson Institute and has broadcast Detroit Tiger baseball, Canadian Open golf and CFL football, as well as hockey.

PAUL WIELAND

Director of Public Relations

Longtime amateur goalie in the U.S. and Canada, Wieland is a former Buffalo newspaperman and was in college and corporate public relations for several years. He is a 1959 graduate of St. Bonaventure University, and worked as a color commentator on last season's Sabres broadcasts.

SABRES' BROADCAST CREW

RICK AZAR Television

Sports director of WKBW-TV who serves as color man on Sabres' telecasts.

PAT HANNIGAN Radio

Analyst and a former NHL winger, appears on radio intermission show, Sabrepoint, on WGR.

RICK JEANNERET Radio

Sportscaster for CJRN, Niagara Falls, Ont., he's radio color commentator and play-by-play man when Ted Darling is on TV.

THE PRESS BOX

The Sabres' press box in Memorial Auditorium is located on the west side of the building, suspended from the ceiling.

SportsCom copy transmitting facilities will be available during 1972-73. Radio and TV broadcast locations are in the press box. The press box is also served by a Western Union Sportsticker. An internal PA system has been installed for 1972-73, and closed circuit television monitors, to be fed by either Sabres' video tape equipment or commercial TV pickups, are anticipated.

The press interview room is located at ice level directly between the Sabres and visiting dressing rooms, and includes work areas for writers.

The press lounge is located on the west side of the building between Level Two and Level Three.
