The Front Office
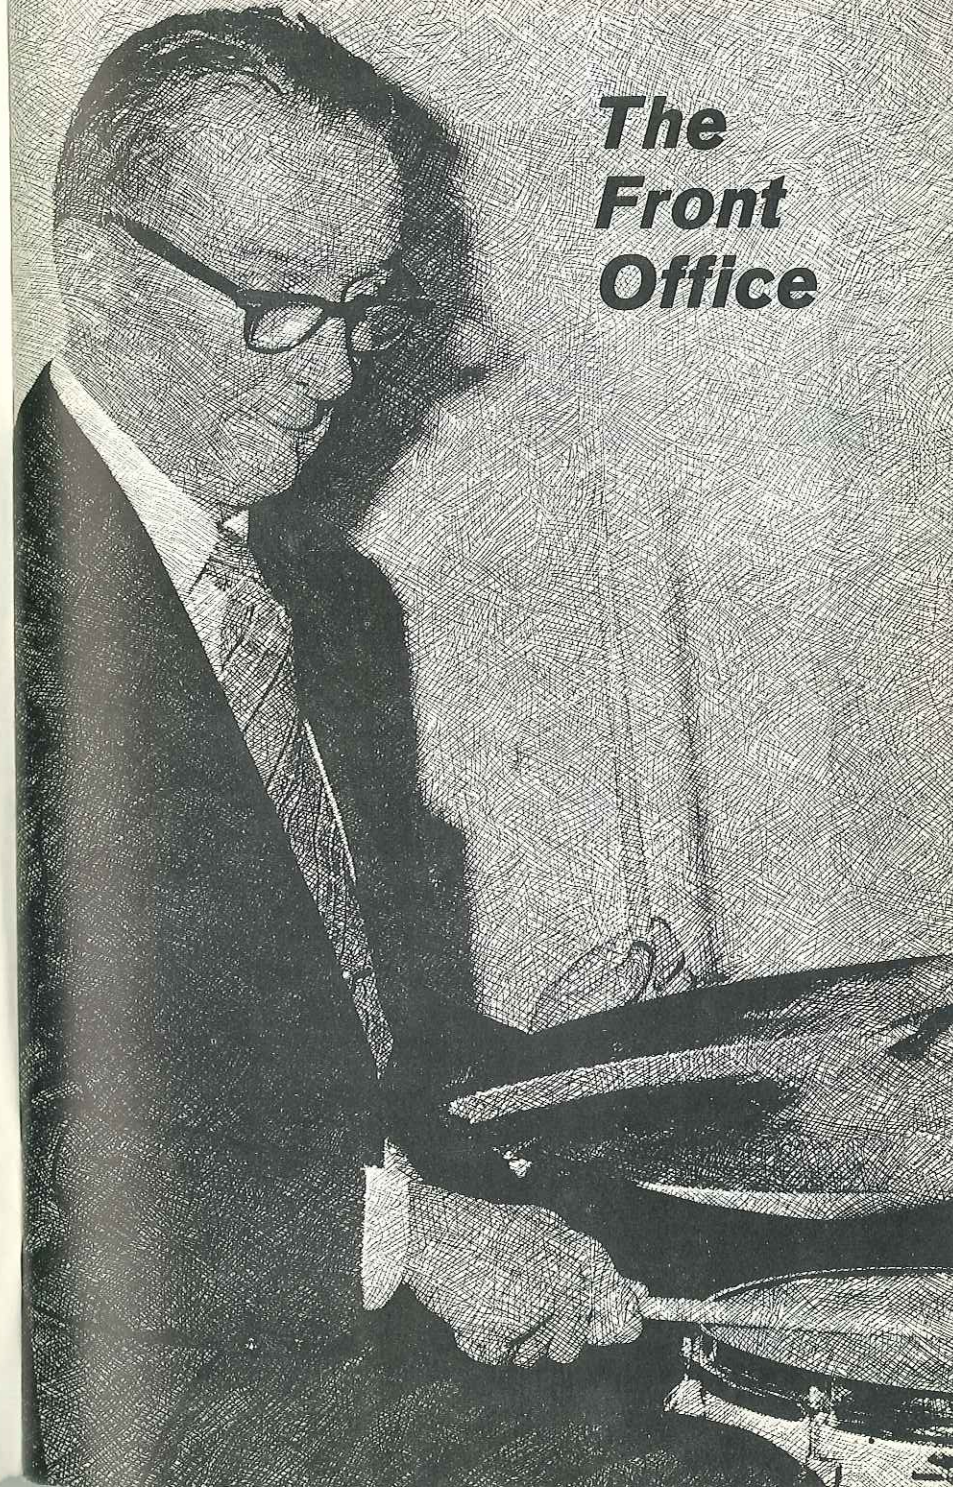

SEYMOUR H. KNOX III
Chairman of the Board and President

Excellence in sport is both personal accomplishment and professional aim for Seymour Knox and his brother Norty. The older Knox brother, Seymour has been a hard-driving dynamic leader in Buffalo's ascendancy in the NHL, as well as in rebuilding the city's self-image. Formerly a nationally ranked squash racquets player and ex-President of the U. S. Squash Racquets Association, Seymour Knox had his hockey career ended as a schoolboy with a football injury. But he continued his interest in the game and it paid off in December 1969 with the grant of a major league franchise to Buffalo. He is a Vice President of Kidder, Peabody and Co., Inc., members of the New York Stock Exchange, and active as a leader in a variety of community organizations. He also serves as the Sabres' representative on the NHL Board of Governors.

NORTHRUP R. KNOX
Vice Chairman of the Board

Dogged persistence by the Knox brothers and their hockey associates led to the Buffalo Sabres franchise, and persistence to build toward championship status describes Norty Knox's life style. He was world champion in the grueling sport of court tennis for ten years, and captain and number one player on the U. S. Polo team in 1966 and 1969. A varsity goalie at Yale University, he was one of the first in the sport to wear contact lenses in the nets, and is the Sabres' alternate representative on the NHL Board of Governors.

ROBERT O. SWADOS
Vice President and Counsel

There are a few men who worked long and hard to convince the nation that Buffalo was a big league sports town in the days when there wasn't a big league sports franchise on the Niagara Frontier. Bob Swados was one of those men, and in large part it was his dedication and articulate advocacy for big time sport here that resulted in this becoming one of pro sports premier hotbeds in the past few years. Former vice president of the Buffalo Bisons Baseball Club and vice president of Major League for Buffalo Inc., he has been counsel to the Knox brothers since their first NHL application in 1965. He is a partner in the law firm of Cohen, Swados, Wright, Hanifin & Bradford.

DAVID G. FORMAN
Administrative Vice President

The day-to-day headaches of the business of sport have been handled since the beginning of the Sabres by Dave Forman, whose administrative ability centers on separating the wheat from the chaff when problems are put before him. If it's sometimes hard to find Dave Forman at his desk, it's because he's out in the Auditorium — in hard hat if need be — checking out some construction, or off at a TV studio arranging for a broader schedule of game telecasts. A well-known business and civic leader in Western New York for three decades, he was named administrative vice president and a member of the Sabres' executive committee in the fall of 1970, after serving as club VP since the franchise was awarded.

GEORGE M. "PUNCH" IMLACH
Vice President/Hockey and General Manager

The most successful hockey executives, it can be reliably reported, are the men who work the hardest and have the most fun working hard. That description fits Punch Imlach and his 15 years in the NHL, as he's been the boss of four Stanley Cup winners and eleven playoff teams over the stretch. His young Sabre club of 1972-73 was the first expansion team to make the playoffs in the old East Division, and his Sabres of 1973-74 were on their way to repeat success until leveled by injuries and illnesses.

But it was the death of the great Tim Horton, who was as close to Imlach as any man who'd ever played for him, that made last season one of Punch's most trying. Every fall Horton performed his ceremonial dance of retirement, and every fall—when the dance was over—Horton would be talked into another year by the patient Imlach. Interviewed once about his relationship with Punch, the late Horton said: "He treats us all the same—like dogs."

Behind Punch's dry wit and occasional outspoken cynicism is one of the sharpest administrative minds in sport, and he has built the Sabres into pro hockey's finest young team—with the accent on "young." He retired from coaching after a heart attack in 1972 and was named a club vice president in addition to GM in 1973.

FRED T. HUNT
Assistant General Manager

One of the busiest men in the Buffalo hockey organization, Fred Hunt and hockey in Buffalo are synonymous. For 18 years he was general manager and four times coach of the old Buffalo Bisons of the AHL, and was a star winger for the Bisons for a decade preceding. Fred has been the Sabres' Assistant General Manager and troubleshooter since the club was founded, and his lengthy experience in hockey administration has been vital in setting up the very successful operation of the Sabres. In 1972-73 he was asked to assume the extra duties of running the Sabres' farm team in Cincinnati, and served as general manager of the Swords until the club was deactivated.

FLOYD SMITH
Coach

Floyd Smith's pro coaching debut was totally unexpected. He stepped behind the bench in January of 1972 when the Sabres met the Toronto Maple Leafs 51 hours after Punch Imlach had been taken ill. The Leafs beat the Sabres that night 2-1, and Smitty went on to take over as coach of the AHL Cincinnati Swords the next day. He guided the Swords into the AHL playoffs that season and led the club to a divisional title and the AHL Calder Cup in 1972-73. The Cincinnati club of 1973-74 was another strong one under Smith. Despite a batch of injuries, the Swords finished a shade out of first in their division, and were eventually eliminated in the playoffs.

Smith was a dogged, hustling checker in nearly 13 seasons in the National Hockey League with Boston, the New York Rangers, Detroit, Toronto, and Buffalo, and performed on Imlach-coached teams in three different cities. He was first captain of the Sabres and, in his last season as an active player in 1971-72, was Punch's coach on the ice and ran many of the team's daily workouts.

A native of Perth, Ontario, he was born May 16, 1935, and played his junior hockey in Galt. He turned pro in 1955-56 and was named coach of the Sabres May 23, 1974.

JOHN ANDERSEN
Director of Scouting

Results speak well for John Andersen and his Sabres' scouting staff. The young players — and the old pros — that John and the staff recommended in the first four years have already been successful; and the group of young prospects who brought Cincinnati the AHL Calder Cup and playoff berths every season will be pushing for major league jobs this year. A native of Denmark, John emigrated to Canada and joined the Toronto Maple Leafs organization under Punch Imlach. He was with Toronto for ten years, then spent a year with the California Golden Seals before rejoining Punch in Buffalo.

FRANK CHRISTIE
Head Trainer

The Sabres' head trainer is as familiar a figure to Buffalo hockey fans as tax bills to a home owner. He has been the Sabres' trainer since the beginning of the club and was trainer for the AHL Buffalo Bisons for 24 years, having joined the club in 1946 after serving an apprentice season with Dallas in the now defunct United States League in 1945.

He started his hockey career during the 1933-34 season as a stickboy for the New York Americans, then a member of the National Hockey League.
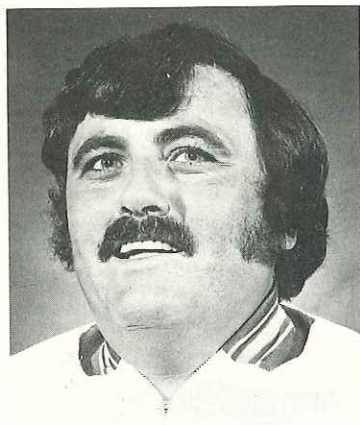

ANGELO NIGRO
Assistant Trainer

Angie Nigro is perfect counterpoint to the bubbling Frank Christie, and has a quieter approach to the very demanding job of being a big league trainer. He's in his fourth year with the Sabres organization, joining the Cincinnati Swords at first and moving to Buffalo three seasons ago. He was formerly a trainer with the American Hockey League Rochester Americans, and resides in Stratford, Ontario, during the off-season. He's involved in the operation of a very successful youth hockey school during the summer months.

CHUCK WURZER
Physical Training Instructor

New to the Sabres staff this season, youthful Chuck Wurzer is one of the finest handball and racquetball players in the United States, with many championships in singles and doubles competition. A former physical education instructor in Buffalo, he's now involved in the operation of a new suburban racquet games facility as well as serving as the Sabres' Phys. Ed. leader. Chuck was a fine amateur hockey player in the Niagara Peninsula a few years ago.

A Look Back

THE FOURTH YEAR

The Sabres' saddest season ended on the upbeat in early April when the NHL's best left winger — Richard Martin — slammed home three goals against the St. Louis Blues to become the 10th player in history and the youngest ever to score 50 goals plus.

Martin's 133 goals in his first three seasons are an NHL record, and he was the first player to start his career with an expansion team to be voted to the first All-Star team at season's end.

Season's beginning was the brightest yet for Buffalo. The Sabres were fresh off a great playoff series against the eventual Stanley Cup winning Montreal Canadiens in the spring of 1973, and were expected to challenge for as high as second spot in the NHL East Division.

But injury piled on injury—early on.

First, right winger Larry Mickey broke his leg in training camp. Then, two weeks into the season, Lady Byng Trophy winner Gil Perreault broke a leg and was out two months.

Jim Schoenfeld, the best rookie defenseman in the league a year before, was sidelined by back surgery after only a few games, as was spectacular goalie Roger Crozier, who played in only a dozen games before he was done for the year with a flareup of pancreatitis.

The Sabres were missing four key players from the year before, but stayed in the NHL playoff race through mid-February largely on Martin's scoring, the vastly improved play of Don Luce and Craig Ramsay, and another guy whom everybody had counted out a long time ago—defense-man Tim Horton.

On a cold February morning, Horton died when his car left the road enroute to Buffalo after a Sabres game in Toronto, and the hockey world lost one of its all-time greats.

Horton's death was first—and foremost—an intense, personal experience for everyone who loved, liked, or respected him . . . and that was everyone he had ever met.

But it also effectively ended the Sabres' fading playoff hopes, as Buffalo couldn't put together more than two wins at a time for the rest of the year in a futile effort to overtake the Maple Leafs.

To cap things in the most ironic of fashions, Larry Mickey had just returned to action when he slid into the boards in Memorial Auditorium during a game against Chicago—and broke his other leg.

This year the Sabres once again are one of the NHL's youngest teams, with Mickey and captain Gerry Meehan the "grizzled vets."

Luce, the club's MVP, and wingmate Ramsay were both strong candidates for the Lady Byng Trophy, and are improving each year. Many of the question marks due to illness and injury have been solved; and Buffalo's new divisional assignment with California, Boston, and Toronto should be a strong test for the young Buffalo club. (Three will make the playoffs.)

Once again the Sabres signed their top choices; and new coach Floyd Smith already has blue chip draft choices in Perreault, Ramsay, Martin, Schoenfeld, and Larry Carriere as regulars, plus another crop of young players waiting in the wings.

The Players
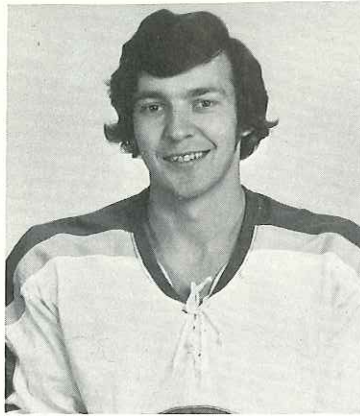

Gary Bromley

(Brahm'lee)

Goalkeeper

Born: Edmonton, Alberta
January 19, 1950
Height: 5'-10" Weight: 160
Shoots: Right

Gary Bromley's National Hockey League debut wasn't the most pleasant of evenings for the slim young westerner they call "Bonesie." He was under heavy bombardment in Maple Leaf Gardens when Buffalo opened its regular 1973-74 season and didn't last the night. But by season's end he had once again been the outstanding young goalkeeper in the American Hockey League, and proved he deserves a full NHL shot. Before the year was over Gary did manage to play in a total of 12 games with the Sabres, and he was the only goalie to play in Buffalo last year who wasn't forced to miss games or dressing for them because of injury. A stand-up, angle-playing goalkeeper, he's very calm (outwardly — at least) under heavy fire, and in his third season as a pro is expected to have a good chance at becoming a Buffalo regular.

Larry Carriere

(Care-e-air')

Defense

Born: Montreal, Quebec
January 30, 1952
Height: 6'-1"   Weight: 195
Shoots: Left

In his first full NHL season, one of the Sabres' few remaining bachelors developed into a solid big league defenseman. Playing with a variety of partners because of injuries to others—and playing mostly on the right side—Carriere tied the club record for goals by a defenseman at 6, and added 24 assists. Called "Hawk" by his teammates, Larry became more aggressive with the passing weeks, and scored a clear-cut victory with Don Saleski of the Philadelphia "Broad St. Bullies" in a late-season matchup. He was captain of his Loyola University team in Montreal his senior year in college and was the Sabres' second round draft pick in 1972.

Rick Dudley

Right Wing

Born: Toronto, Ontario
January 31, 1949
Height: 6'-0"   Weight: 190
Shoots: Left

The arrival of Rick Dudley as a National Hockey League regular ends an unlikely set of circumstances. He's one of the finest lacrosse players in the game today, and was an outstanding junior in that sport — so much so that his junior hockey career suffered. He turned hockey pro in the Minnesota organization but was shelved by a leg injury in less than two seasons. Buffalo obtained his rights after a tip from his old lacrosse coach, and Dudley worked his way up to the NHL through Cincinnati in only two seasons. This summer he starred in the new pro lacrosse league with Rochester, under that same junior coach — Morley Kells. In his first NHL season Dudley had 13 goals and 13 assists and was one of the hardest working Sabres on and off the ice. He even wears weights on his skates during practice to build up speed and endurance.

Rocky Farr

Goalkeeper

Born: Toronto, Ontario
April 7, 1947
Height: 5'-10"   Weight: 175
Shoots: Both

When Rocky Farr was called up to Buffalo last season he joined a club where illness and injury was regularly sidelining goaltenders, and soon Farr joined the group. First he was hit in the eye with a shot in practice, and then an ankle went bad, reducing his availability during the last weeks of the season. This season it appears Rocky will get an opportunity to become a regular NHL goalkeeper, as the Sabres goaltending cast has changed. If hard work is the answer, then Rocky will make it as a regular, as he's one of the most diligent practitioners of his craft in the sport. He's even devised special drills for reaction improvement using a rubber ball bounced off a blank wall at very short range. Rocky was the first goalie chosen by Buffalo in the expansion draft when the Sabres entered the NHL.

Norm Gratton

(Gra-tawn')
Left-Right Wing

Born: LaSalle, Quebec
December 22, 1950
Height: 5'-11"   Weight: 170
Shoots: Left

One of the prettiest goals of last season came on the final night when Norm set up Richard Martin for his record 52nd in Memorial Auditorium against St. Louis. Norm has been a close friend of the star left winger since they were teammates on the Montreal Junior Canadiens, and says it was a special thrill to help Rick to a team record. Since joining the Sabres late in the 72-73 season Norm has seldom played regularly, but has shown flashes of the speed and puck-handling ability which made him a first-round draft pick of the New York Rangers in 1970.

Jerry Korab

Defense

Born: Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario
September 15, 1948
Height: 6'-3" Weight: 215
Shoots: Left

Jerry Korab literally walked into Memorial Auditorium, put on his equipment and began to play hockey for the Sabres. He had been obtained in a Christmas Eve trade with Vancouver last season and arrived just before game time for a Dec. 27 meeting with Detroit. He shook off the effect of transcontinental travel in the pre-game warmup and was one of the best on the ice during a Buffalo win. Though he's played both wing and defense in his NHL career — including time at both slots with Buffalo — plans this year are to leave Jerry at defense where he feels most at home. Coach Floyd Smith also plans to continue his defense pairing with Jim Schoenfeld, giving the Sabres the biggest (and most consider — toughest) backline pairing in the NHL. Jerry has one of the hardest and heaviest slap shots in the league — ask any goaltender as he rubs his bruises.

Real Lemieux

(Le-mew')

Left-Right Wing

Born: Victoriaville, Quebec
January 3, 1945
Height: 5'-11"   Weight: 180
Shoots: Left

When he was with Los Angeles, Real Lemieux paired with Jim Peters to provide the Kings with one of the league's finest penalty killing pairs. So when he was available in mid-season last year, the Sabres obtained Lemieux from the Rangers to provide checking and penalty-killing depth in Buffalo. But Lemieux only made the lineup 11 times and saw little action the last few weeks of the season due to illness. Once the league badman in his early pro years at Memphis of the Central League, Real has always been a pretty spunky competitor, known for aggressive checking ability. He shuffled between Los Angeles and the Rangers, twice each way after being drafted from the Detroit organization by the Kings when they entered the league in 1967.

Center-Right Wing

Born: Waterloo, Ontario
May 1, 1947
Height: 6'-0"   Weight: 180
Shoots: Left

There's one spot on the ice where a hockey player is sure to pick up his share of bruises. That's out front of the goal crease when your team has a man advantage, and the defense is unloading the heavy artillery to move you away from the vital goal-scoring slot. Jim Lorentz has more than his share of bruises, but also has 23 power play goals in the past two seasons for his efforts. He scored 12 last year and 11 the year before to lead Buffalo, and continues to be one of the Sabres most aggressive players and dogged checkers. Jim dabbled at center and left wing on a few occasions in 1973-74, but played most of the time on the right side. His versatility as a forward makes it impossible to predict at what spot he will play most—or all—of the time in 1974-75.

Don Luce

(Loose)

Center

Born: London, Ontario
October 2, 1948
Height: 6'-2"   Weight: 185
Shoots: Left

Hardwork continues to pay off for Don Luce. Since he arrived in Buffalo along with Mike Robitaille in a 1971 trade, Don has improved every portion of his ability through dogged persistence and an intense physical conditioning program. In 1973-74 the results spoke for themselves. A career-high 26 goals and 30 assists—third in team scoring—and the choice by his teammates as the Sabres' Most Valuable Player at season's end. The soft-spoken, rangy center has become a fan favorite in Buffalo where the cry of "Looose— Looose" rolls down from the balcony whenever he rushes up ice. Teamed with winger Craig Ramsay, Luce is half of what's considered one of the NHL's premier penalty-killing units.

Richard Martin

Left Wing

Born: Montreal, Quebec
July 26, 1951
Height: 5'-11" Weight: 172
Shoots: Left

The fans—the players—and the writers are in accord. In his third pro season Richard Martin became the best left winger in big league hockey. Chosen to the official league first all-star team, and all the unofficial ones, at the end of his best season, Martin is the first player ever to make that grade who started his career with an expansion team. He scored 52 goals in 73-74, to become the 10th player in NHL history to crack the 50 mark, and improved his checking ability enroute. He's played in the mid-season All-Star Game every year he's been a pro, and has a great competitive fire which makes his blistering slap shot and wilting wrist shot doubly dangerous. In his first three seasons, Martin scored more goals —133—than any players ever in their first three years in NHL history.

Center

Born: Toronto, Ontario
September 3, 1946
Height: 6'-2"   Weight: 196

Gerry Meehan is the most durable of the Sabres—the last of the players remaining taken by the Sabres in the expansion draft of June 1970 which brought Buffalo into the NHL. Not only durable but steady, he's scored 94 goals in four seasons and is third on the all-time Buffalo scoring list. Meehan has been captain of the Sabres since 1971, and last year—when he missed 6 games—was the first time he's missed more than one outing in a season with Buffalo. He broke into pro hockey as a left winger, but blossomed as a regular when he returned to his junior hockey center position with the Sabres. Meehan is chief instructor at the Sabres off-season hockey school.

Larry Mickey

Right Wing

Born: Lacombe, Alta.
October 21, 1943
Height: 5'-11"   Weight: 180
Shoots: Right

The nominations for unluckiest hockey player of 1973-74 should open and close with Larry Mickey. The hard-working right winger broke his left leg in two places during training camp last fall and was sidelined for most of the season. When he was able to skate again, he played his way into shape at Cincinnati, and reported back to Buffalo for the final weeks of the season. He played in only 13 games before being knocked into the boards against Chicago in the last part of the season, breaking his other leg. Mickey has played on several NHL clubs, and always is a steady hard-working checker with tremendous competitive spirit. It was his winning goal which cinched a playoff spot for Buffalo in 1972-73.

Gil Perreault

(Pear'-o)

Center

Born: Victoriaville, Quebec
November 13, 1950
Height: 6'-1" Weight: 195
Shoots: Left

The medical report on Gil Perreault the night of Oct. 28, 1973 had as much to do with the Sabres fortunes the rest of the season as any other factor. Perreault had a fractured left fibula—the smaller of the two major leg bones—suffered in a fall during a game against the New York Islanders. Eight weeks later he was back in the lineup, but never regained the level of effectiveness that's made him one of hockey's "homerun hitters" until the last few games of the year. At 23, Perreault has already won two major trophies in the NHL—the Calder, as rookie of the year in 1970-71, and the Lady Byng in 72-73. He's probably the most exciting player in the league to watch on a rink-length rush . . . one of those rare players who can bring the crowd to the edge of its seats the moment he gains control of the puck. Gil is a native of Arthabaska, Que., and resides there in the off-season.

Craig Ramsay

(Ram'-zee)

Left Wing

Born: Toronto, Ontario
March 17, 1951
Height: 5'-10"   Weight: 170
Shoots: Left

A poll of the coaches in the NHL at the end of last season found Craig Ramsay listed among the best checkers in the league. He has the ability to go into the corners and come out with the puck— and with his head still on his shoulders—despite the usual corner traffic jams. But in his third season Ramsay's talents went beyond checking and penalty killing, to scoring 20 goals and 26 assists, both career highs. During training camp in 1973 it appeared Ramsay wouldn't be playing any hockey at all. A back problem kept him hospitalized in traction until the day before the regular season started, but Craig literally left his sick bed to take a regular turn in the season opener at Toronto. He never missed a game or a shift the rest of the year. He and wingmate Rick Dudley tied as Most Improved Player by vote of their teammates, and Craig was named the Sabres' "Unsung Hero" by the Booster Club.

Born: Three Rivers (Trois Rivieres), Quebec
December 31, 1948
Height: 5'-9"   Weight: 165
Shoots: Right

Hockey's most exciting line in 72-73 was aptly named the French Connection and Robert's marksmanship on right wing was the Connection's knockout punch. Last season Rene's goal production dropped with the breakup of his line due to Gil Perreault's broken leg, but Rene continued his playmaking, leading the club in assists, and was third on the Sabres in game-winning goals with five. Second in team scoring, Rene was usually on the right point in power play situations, and his slap shot is one of the best in the league. He came to Buffalo from the Pittsburgh Penguins, and in slightly more than two seasons has scored 67 goals and 90 assists. He was voted East Division first All-Star right winger for the 1973 game and scored a goal in his initial appearance in the classic.

Mike Robitaille

(Row'-bit-eye)

Defense

Born: Midland, Ontario
February 12, 1948
Height: 5'-11"   Weight: 197
Shoots: Right

Only a select few of this generation of hockey players have been able to master the classic hip check, and Mike Robitaille is perhaps the best of the lot. When Mike flips a hard-skating forward through the air with a perfectly-timed roll of a hip, the results are always spectacular, and it's one of hockey's most exciting defensive plays. He's also a very accurate shot from the point, with more shots on the net during the season than many forwards, and is sometimes used on the power play for that reason. Mike and Don Luce came to Buffalo in a trade with Detroit on May 25, 1971 — a trade that has been instrumental in the construction of a winning team in Buffalo — and he now makes his off-season home in the suburb of Williamsville. Mike operates a hockey school in the Buffalo area during the off-season.

Jim Schoenfeld

Born: Galt, Ontario

Height: 6'-2"   Weight: 208

Buffalo fans didn't see as much as they'd like of the big redhead in Jim Schoenfeld's second NHL season, as a back problem forced surgery, and Schony only played in 28 games all year. Top vote getter among defensemen eligible for the Calder Trophy for rookies a year before, he was paired with the late Tim Horton as a rookie and into his second year. Near last season's end when he returned to action after working into shape at Cincinnati, he teamed with Jerry Korab to give the Sabres the biggest defense partnership in the NHL. In the off-season Jim continued his budding career in the recording business — with rock music the subject — and settled in Buffalo as a year-round home. Since Schoenfeld entered the NHL he's improved his skating and his first-year reputation as a club policeman resulted in a lower proportion of fighting penalties in 1973-74. No one likes to test Schony any more.

Brian Spencer was a late arrival in Buffalo during the 1973-74 season, playing in only 13 games with the Sabres after being obtained in a deadline-beating trade with the New York Islanders, who received Doug Rombough in return. But it didn't take "Spinner" long to become popular with Buffalo fans with his aggressive play and checking ability. Watching Spencer change direction explains his nickname better than any words can. He was obtained from the Toronto Maple Leafs in the expansion draft by New York and was voted the Islanders most popular player in 1972-73. Aggressive play early in his career led to 150-plus penalty minute totals each season, but Spencer has reduced his trips to the box in the past two seasons without reducing the pugnacious quality of his play.

MEDIA SERVICES

The Sabres' press box is located on the west side of Memorial Auditorium, suspended from the ceiling.

Telecopy transmitting facilities will be located in the press box during each game and in the press interview room post-game. A league-wide Telex system supplies out-of-town scores and scoring, and closed circuit TV monitors are installed at each end of the press box.

The press interview room is located at ice level directly between the Sabres and visiting team dressing rooms and includes work area for writers and broadcasters.

The press lounge is located on the west (press box) side of the building between Level Two and Level Three.
