Children's Foundation

HISTORY

The Islanders Children's Foundation (ICF) was created in 2003 as a registered 501 (c) (3) and extension under the leadership of late Islanders owner Charles B. Wang who had a passion to help children and provide them with the best opportunities to live happy, healthy, and successful lives. The Islanders' current ownership group shares Charles' values and is committed to being a leader in philanthropic causes and continues to make the ICF a staple in the community. Since its inception, the ICF has raised more than $19 million through various events and initiatives to help those in the community. The success of the Islanders Children's Foundation is a testament to the support of the entire Islanders family (ownership, players, staff, sponsors, and fans).

MISSION

The Islanders' Children's Foundation is committed to supporting, educating and developing area youth while investing in Metro New York's families and community well being. The ICF focuses on supporting nonprofit organizations that share its common mission and developing programs that will create a lasting legacy for years to come.
